PhD QUALIFYING EXAMINATION READING LIST

English 9913 (SF)/9933 (PF)

RESTORATION AND EIGHTEENTH CENTURY

To train students as specialists in the field of Restoration and Eighteenth Century, candidates will prepare a reading list according to instructions and requirements below.

1. Instructions

i. Secondary Field Exam

Students are responsible for all of the titles on the CORE reading list.

ii. Primary Field Exam

Students will make additions and substitutions to the CORE reading list in consultation with the committee and according to his/her research interest as long as there is no overall diminution in the amount of reading.

2. Exam Structure

- i. Students are required to answer THREE questions. All question are of equal value.
- ii. Students must not write on any author in detail more than once. You may of course refer in passing to an author as often as you see fit.
- iii. Students must provide at least THREE examples in each answer.
- iv. Students should demonstrate as broad a range of understanding as possible in your paper as a whole.

CORE TEXTS

Most of the selections on this list in the “Poetry” and “Prose” sections can be found in David Damrosch, et al., eds. The Longman Anthology of British Literature. Vol. IC. The Restoration and 18th Century. Many of the poems can be found in the two anthologies edited by Roger Lonsdale: The New Oxford Book of Eighteenth-Century Verse, and Eighteenth-Century Women Poets. For Collier and Duck (and other poems), students may also wish to consult David Fairer and Christine Gerrard, eds., Eighteenth-Century Poetry: An Annotated Anthology

Recommended Secondary Sources

Students are encouraged to pursue some secondary reading in preparation for the exam. Students may find introductions to current scholarly editions of the texts useful as well as the essays in the relevant Blackwell Companions and Cambridge Companions. A list of other resources can be made in conjunction with the examination committee. Your answers should demonstrate an awareness of the historical and cultural moment of the Restoration and Eighteenth Century, but students are discouraged from quoting or directly referring to individual critics.
