LILLIAN KROLL PRIZE IN CREATIVE WRITING 2017

This award was established by Mr. B. Franklin Shostack and Dr. Zane Cohen in memory of the late Lillian Kroll, and awarded by the Department of English and Writing Studies.

The prize of $250.00 is awarded competitively to an undergraduate student (any faculty or program including students at the affiliated colleges) who exhibits a developing talent for creative writing.

Contest Rules

DEADLINE:
Monday, February 27, 2017

SUBMISSIONS TO: (hard copies only)
Department of English and Writing Studies, Arts & Humanities Building,
Room 2G02
Inquiries to Vivian Foglton, vivian.foglton@uwo.ca

WHAT TO SUBMIT:

ONE ENTRY per person, of either prose, fiction, poetry or drama will be adjudicated on the basis of the quality of the writing submitted, not its quantity. You should submit work that has not hitherto been published or won an award in any other competition.

One of the following would be a suitable submission:
- a poem, or a brief series of linked poems
- a one-act play, or scenes from a longer work
- a short story or novella, or selections from a longer work of fiction

Please include your name, student number, email address, and telephone number on the front page of your submission.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the winning entry will be made in April of 2017, with the results being posted on The Department of English web site, www.uwo.ca/english.
The WINNER will be notified by email or telephone.
