Course Description:
Where is “here” for writers of migrant and diasporic heritages living in Canada? How might writing from “elsewhere” inform individual and collective understandings of what it means to live in Canada or to be “Canadian”? Do questions of national “identity” matter, or matter in the same ways, that they did in Canada’s actual and literary pasts? How might the literature of “newcomers” to Canada after official multiculturalism help us to answer such questions? Realities of global conflict and global capitalism, past and present, not only inflect realities of immigration and citizenship, they also raise questions about the adequacies of such terms as “multiculturalism,” the “mosaic,” and the nation-state itself, on which prominent national narratives of “identity,” and of Canada’s literary history, have depended. This course will study a rich variety of answers to the questions raised above and to new questions arising as we study together.

Official Things You Need to Know:
- Policy on Late Work:
  Late work for which accommodation has not been granted by the Academic Counselling Office will lose marks at the rate of 10% (of the weight of the late assignment) per day (or part thereof) late (e.g., an essay worth 15% will be penalized 1.5 marks per day late from a possible total of 15 marks).
- Seeking Accommodation for missed or late work:
  Students seeking academic accommodation on medical grounds for any missed tests, exams, participation components and/or assignments worth (either alone or in combination) 10% or more of their final grade must apply to the Academic Counselling office of their home Faculty and provide documentation. Academic accommodation cannot be granted by the instructor or department. Documentation shall be submitted by the student, as soon as possible, to the Office of the Dean of the student’s Faculty of registration, together with a request for relief specifying the nature of the accommodation being requested. Information can be found at the following link: Accommodation for Illness--Undergrads
- Support for Mental Health:
  Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to Mental Wellbeing for a complete list of options about how to obtain help.
- Statement on Plagiarism: see the policy and advice provided for students by the department at the following link: Plagiarism
- Statement on Absenteeism:
  Excessive absenteeism is grounds for debarring a student from taking the final examination. Senate regulations state: "Any student who, in the opinion of the instructor, is absent too frequently from class or laboratory periods in any course, will be reported to the Dean of the Faculty offering the course (after due warning has been given). On the recommendation of the department concerned, and with the permission of the Dean of that Faculty, the student will be debarred from taking the regular examination in the course".
