COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed to introduce students to some of the main problems and approaches in contemporary meta-ethics (i.e., those that have evolved over the course of the 20th century). Meta-ethics is the study of the presuppositions of moral discourse and is therefore concerned with epistemological, metaphysical and semantic issues (at least). We will consider a variety of questions, including but not limited to: What is the meaning of the word “ought” in the judgment that “You ought not to break your promises”? Do such judgments express beliefs about what is the fact of the matter morally, or attitudes of a different kind (e.g., desires)? Is moral knowledge possible? If not, why not? If so, what is the nature of such knowledge? And how do we arrive at it? In what sense (if any) are moral judgments true? If there are moral truths what is their nature? In what way (if at all) are they similar to ordinary scientific truths? What is the relationship between moral judgment and motivation to act? If one sincerely judges that lying is wrong, is one necessarily motivated not to lie? If not, why not?

OBJECTIVES

This course has two main objectives. Most importantly, to help students develop the ability to formulate, express, and analyze complex philosophical ideas clearly, both verbally and in writing. The second is to familiarize students with the main problems in contemporary meta-ethics.

ASSESSMENT

AUDIT

Students wishing to audit the course should consult with the instructor prior to or during the first week of classes.

REGULATIONS

1. Submission of essays

   Please submit your assignments electronically. Do not submit a paper copy.

   In order to submit your assignment, simply visit the OWL site for this course. On the left-hand navigation menu you will find the assignment tool. Click on this tool and you will find the assignment guidelines and basic instructions for submitting your assignment. To submit your assignment upload it and click on the submit button at the bottom of the page.

   A corrected version of your paper will be returned to you through the OWL site.

2. Turnitin.com

   All required papers will be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted will be included as course documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (http://www.turnitin.com).

3. Extensions

   If you miss a quiz, you will NOT be permitted to make it up. However, with respect to the remainder of the course work, exceptions to the above work submission dates may be granted only as a result of petition to the Academic Counselor of the student’s faculty. Instructors have no authority to waive this requirement, and any unofficial arrangements they make with students will not be respected by the administration.
All course work must be submitted by the last day of classes, i.e., Friday December 8th, 2017.

Academic policies on examinations, appeals, absences due to illness, etc. may be found in the 2017-18 Academic Calendar. For further information, contact your Faculty’s Academic Counselor.

4. Late essays and penalties

An essay will be considered late if it is handed in after the due date. Late essays will be penalized at the rate of five percentage points on the first day it is late, followed by a deduction of one percentage point for each subsequent day up to a maximum of 50%, at which point a grade of 0 will be automatically recorded.

NOTE: This policy DOES NOT apply to Essay #3, which is due on the last day of classes for the semester (i.e., Friday, December 8th 2017)… accordingly, if Essay #3 is not submitted on time, a grade of 0 will (regrettably) be automatically applied.

5. Plagiarism

Plagiarism is a form of cheating. Plagiarism is unacknowledged copying or paraphrasing of the words or ideas of another person. In general, anyone who learns something from a source (other than course lectures or general background knowledge any student of the course could reasonably be expected to have) and then presents that knowledge as their own discovery is considered to have plagiarized, even if the words used to express the ideas are not exactly the same.

Examples of plagiarism include: misrepresenting co-authored or group work as individually done, cutting and pasting copied or paraphrased work by others in with your own work, paraphrasing or otherwise altering the order of words or phrases and/or substituting words or phrases of similar meaning without acknowledgement that you are doing so, aiding and abetting such offences, among others.

Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea, or a passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a MAJOR academic offence (see Scholastic Offence Policy in the Western Academic Calendar).

6. E-mail policy

I am not able to respond to philosophical concerns or questions over e-mail. I will deal with such concerns or questions during my office hours only. If you have a problem turning in an assignment on time or you need to make an appointment with me or you have some private issue you would like to communicate to me, feel free to use e-mail. Otherwise, please attend my office hours or make an appointment to see me.
7. Prerequisites

You are responsible for ensuring that you have successfully completed all course prerequisites and that you have not taken an antirequisite course. Lack of prerequisites may not be used as a basis of appeal. If you are not eligible for a course, you may be removed from it at any time, and you will receive no fee adjustment. These decisions cannot be appealed.

The ONE Prerequisite for this course is: Philosophy 2700

8. The Department of Philosophy Policies which govern the conduct, standards, and expectations for student participation in Philosophy courses is available in the Undergraduate section of the Department of Philosophy website at http://www.uwo.ca/philosophy/undergraduate/policies.html. It is your responsibility to understand the policies set out by the Senate and the Department of Philosophy, and thus ignorance of these policies cannot be used as grounds of appeal.

9. Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to Mental Health@Western http://www.uwo.ca/uwocom/mentalhealth/ for a complete list of options about how to obtain help.
