Writing 2504A: Write Now!
Inspiration, Craft & Creative Process

Interested in creative writing, in learning about different genres and styles of writing, and in getting insights into the business and craft of writing from working writers? Consider taking Writing 2504A.

Write Now! is organized around a series of lectures by writers. Every week, a new writer visits the class to read from their work, talk about their writing and their career, and answer questions. The writers booked for this year include novelists, poets, playwrights, screenwriters, sports writers, etc. Lectures cover topics such as inspiration, overcoming creative blocks, revision, publishing and literary citizenship.

This course offers students a unique opportunity to learn from a wide variety of writers about the craft of writing and the creative life while improving their own writing.

Guest Speakers Include:

Ben Ladouceur: Poet and Screenwriter

L.E. Sterling: Young Adult/Science Fiction and Fantasy Author

Nathan Niigan Noodin Adler: Horror Writer and Multi-Media Artist

Stacey May Fowles: Novelist, Essayist, and Sports Writer

Daniel MacIvor: Playwright and Screenwriter

George Elliott Clarke: Novelist, Poet and the Current Parliamentary Poet Laureate

Open to general registration.
