

Courses Offered in the School for Advanced Studies in the Arts & Humanities

YEAR 1
ARTHUM 1020E	Introduction to the Arts and Humanities
YEAR 2
ARTHUM 2200E	Critical Theories in the Arts and Humanities
ARTHUM 2220F/G	Effective Communication in the Arts and Humanities
ARTHUM 2230F/G	Digital Tools, Digital Literacies
YEAR 3
ARTHUM 3390F/G 3393F/G	Special Topics in Interdisciplinary Studies
YEAR 4
ARTHUM 4410E	Integrated Seminar
ARTHUM 4490F/G 4493F/G	Experiential Learning in the Arts and Humanities

NOTE: Not all courses may be offered each year.

School for Advanced Studies in the Arts & Humanities

School for Advanced Studies in the Arts & Humanities
 Weldon Library, Rm. 109
 London ON N6A 5B9
 T: 519.661.2111 ext. 87996 E: sasah@uwo.ca
 uwo.ca/arts/SASAH
 Printed 2018

What is SASAH?

The School for Advanced Studies in the Arts and Humanities offers a learning experience unique in Canada. Combining interdisciplinary dialogue, language acquisition, community engagement, experiential learning, digital instruction, and international study, students in SASAH's 4-year undergraduate program realize their creative potential to transform the world through critical thought, cultural production, creative activity, and community engagement.

Western's SASAH Program

Each year SASAH accepts 25 diverse, highly engaged candidates for enriched study that integrates thought and practice from multiple perspectives:

Cultural: exploring complexities of human achievement, expression, and motivation

Linguistic: competency in languages other than English

Experience: access to community service and professional learning

Global: contact with communities at home and abroad

Drawing on the Faculty of Arts and Humanities' national reputation, SASAH is a catalyst for innovation and excellence in teaching, research, and student-directed learning. SASAH Fellows are drawn from the Faculty's 135+ professors, including Canada Research Chairs, Fellows of the Royal Society of Canada, Distinguished University Professors, 3M Teaching Fellowships, and Western's Hellmuth Prize and Edward G. Pleva Award.

Admission:

SASAH is a direct admissions program accepting 25 students per year. The minimum overall average for admission is 90%. Students interested in SASAH must 1) apply to the Faculty of Arts and Humanities at Western using the OUAC application form; and 2) submit a written Statement of Interest to sasah@uwo.ca. SASAH Research Fellows shortlist candidates to be interviewed for final acceptance to the School. In exceptional cases we admit students to the program's second year.

SASAH's Advisory Council is comprised of international leaders in not-for-profit, culture, theatre, business, finance, and publishing, among other fields.

Read more on our website: www.uwo.ca/arts/sasah/about_us/advisory_council.html

For further details about the application process, visit: www.uwo.ca/arts/sasah/apply/index.html

For further details about the SASAH Program, visit: www.uwo.ca/arts/sasah/program/index.html

Should you have any questions about SASAH prior to applying to Western, please contact us at sasah@uwo.ca

FAQ

Location:

SASAH is based in Weldon Library, on the main campus of Western University in London, Ontario, Canada.

Tuition:

The cost of enrolling in SASAH is the regular full-time tuition fee paid by students registered in the Faculty of Arts and Humanities.

Scholarships:

Entrance scholarships and other funding for SASAH are available. Visit our website for details.

Degree:

Graduates receive a Bachelor of Arts with a Major in Arts and Humanities, as well as a Major or Honours Specialization from another program in the Faculty of Arts and Humanities, or another program at Western.

Student Experience:

SASAH learning extends beyond the classroom to campus and community, including participation in the SASAH Events Committee and Blog Team. These pursuits are logged on students' Co-Curricular Records, an essential document for future professional development.

Housing:

All first-year SASAH students are given priority consideration for a dedicated learning floor in Ontario Hall, Western's newest residence.

Contact:

For further information about The School for Advanced Studies in the Arts and Humanities visit www.westernu.ca/arts/SASAH or contact:

Jennifer Tramble, Program Coordinator
School for Advanced Studies in the Arts and Humanities
Room 1N16, International and Graduate Affairs Building
Tel: 519 661-2111 ext. 87996
sasah@uwo.ca

SASAH students reflect critically upon all facets of their learning experience and then mobilize this experience in the world at large. Visit the SASAH Student Blog to get a sense of the diversity of SASAH life and learning:

www.sasahblog.com

Meet Levi

"I know I made the right choice because my classmates are people who I can have incredibly enriching discussions with. We all specialize in different disciplines, but that's only ever been a strength: we can come to each other with different ideas that turn our own understandings on their head. I've had many incredible mentors at Western that I can't imagine what my experience would be, what my knowledge base would be, without having come here."

– Levi Hord, 2018 Rhodes Scholar, fourth-year Sexuality Studies, School for Advanced Studies in Arts & Humanities (SASAH) and Scholar's Electives student

