They are awarded annually based on academic achievement to full-time graduate or undergraduate students, registered in Classical Studies programs, to assist with travel costs for research at libraries or sites anywhere in the world, but especially Greece or Italy, and for Classical Studies study abroad courses (e.g. CS 4580: Vindolanda Field School; CS 3010G: Study Tour to Greece; and CS3050G: Study Tour to Italy). Preference will be given to graduate students but undergraduates are encouraged to apply. The recipient will be selected by the Awards Committee of the Department of Classical Studies.

The Archaeological Excavation Fund was established by donations to the Department of Classical Studies.
