Romance Conventions in Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice

If you have a snappy, attention-grabbing title, follow it with an informative subtitle that indicates your topic as well as the work(s) you will be discussing (EXAMPLE: Passion and Propriety: Romance Conventions in Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice). Titles of books should be italicized. Titles of articles and short stories should be put in "Quotation Marks." Introduce quotations in your own words, identifying the speaker and context: EXAMPLE: According to Miss Bingley, "Miss Eliza Bennet ... despises cards. She is a great reader and has no pleasure in anything else" (32). Use ellipses to indicate where you have omitted material. Put any changes in brackets: EXAMPLE: Elizabeth replies by claiming that she "ha[s] pleasure in many things" (32).

If the quotation is longer than four lines, do not use quotations marks; instead, indent the passage ten spaces from the left and continue to double space.

EXAMPLE: Austen is careful to inform readers of her characters' income and position:

Mr. Bennet's property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed in default of heirs male, on a distant relation; and their mother's fortune, though ample for her situation in life, could but ill supply the deficiency of his. (23)

Note that the end punctuation goes after the parentheses in short quotations and before the parentheses in long quotations. Do not use abbreviations such as p. or pp. At the end of the essay, list all the works you have discussed or used in the preparation of your paper. Staple the top left hand corner.

Plagiarism:

Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea or passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offence.

Plagiarism Checking:

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com <http://www.turnitin.com>.

All instances of plagiarism will be reported to the Chair of Undergraduate Studies. Proven cases of plagiarism will result in a grade of zero for the assignment. Subsequent offences will result in failure for the course.
