

Department of English & Writing Studies

English 2203G (001)
Studies in Narrative Theory
Winter 2025

Instructor: Brian Diemert

Course Description

This course provides an introduction to narrative theory as well as an opportunity for students to apply the theory they learn to a range of texts. The course will examine the study of narrative as it has evolved since the 1960s. We will learn the vocabulary of theories of narrative and use this vocabulary and the larger theoretical principles we study in our reading of a novel. We will also consider the application of narrative theory to texts that blur the distinction between literary and non-literary domains, and investigate narrative as a set of relations governing discourses in everyday life (gossip, newspapers, psychological, and legal rhetorics, video and t.v.) and other art forms, including film. Finally, we will think about certain kinds of "limit" texts and cases; are there events and experiences that defy narration?

Course Materials

Required Texts:

- Norton Anthology of Theory and Criticism, Leitch, et. al. eds.
- Jonathan Culler, A Very Short Introduction to Literary Theory (Oxford)
- Alison Lurie, Real People (Open Road)

Additional Information

Late essays are penalized 2 points per academic day past the due date. (Academic days are days when the university holds classes; that is, weekends and holidays are not academic days.)

Reflections are brief comments (200-225 words—certainly not more than a page) on matters that emerge out of discussion, your reading, or thinking about the course. I treat these responses as writing exercises, and, because they are individually worth only 2.5% of your grade extensions and make-up opportunities are not granted. Unsubmitted reflections receive a grade of 0. If you have academic accommodation or documented medical reasons and cannot submit a reflection on time, the remaining reflections will be worth slightly more. Reflections in total are worth 10% of your grade. Essays and the reflection exercises should be submitted in hard copy to me on the due date. I accept emailed or posted submissions to demonstrate material is completed on the due date; however, I only read and grade hard copy submissions.

Statements

Academic Consideration

Students may request academic consideration in cases of extenuating circumstances – that is, personal circumstances beyond the student's control that have a substantial but temporary impact on the student's ability to meet essential academic requirements.

1. Requests for academic consideration are made to the Academic Advising office of the student's Faculty of Registration.
2. Requests for academic consideration include the following components:
 - a. Self-attestation signed by the student;
 - b. Indication of the course(s) and assessment(s) relevant to the request;
 - c. Supporting documentation as relevant.

Requests without supporting documentation are limited to one per term per course.

Instructors may designate one assignment or assessment as exempt from this allowance. In this course, requests for academic consideration pertaining to the final exam must be accompanied by supporting documentation.

Assignments with flexible deadlines and any term work that does not count towards the course grade are not eligible for additional consideration.

Documentation for medical illness, when required, includes the completion of a Western Student Medical Certificate \(SMC\) or, where that is not possible, equivalent documentation, by a health care practitioner.

Requests linked to examinations scheduled by the Office of the Registrar during official examination periods as well as practice laboratory and performance tests typically scheduled in the last week of term always require formal supporting documentation.

Attendance

Attendance is mandatory in all classes and tutorials. In cases of excessive absenteeism (e.g. more than 9 unexcused hours for a half course, 18 for a full course), which are not accounted for by either academic consideration or accommodation, students may be debarred from taking the final examination, and will receive an official warning to this effect by or before the course drop date (see Senate policy). In classes with or without final exams, students who do not attend class will receive 0% for course participation grades. Unless other policies dictate a different set of penalties in specific English and Writing Studies programs, this will apply to all department programs.

Gender-Based and Sexual Violence

Western is committed to reducing incidents of gender-based and sexual violence (GBSV) and providing compassionate support to anyone who is going through or has gone through these traumatic events. If you are experiencing or have experienced GBSV (either recently or in the past), you will find information about support services for survivors, including emergency contacts at the following website: https://www.uwo.ca/health/student_support/survivor_support/get-help.html. To connect with a case manager or set up an appointment, please contact support@uwo.ca.

Intellectual Property/Copyright

All instructor-written materials (e.g. PowerPoints, lecture notes, oral lectures) for this course are created solely for students' personal use within the course, and remain the instructor's intellectual property. Further reproduction, fixation, distribution, transmission, dissemination, communication, or any other uses, without securing the consent of the copyright owner (the course instructor) may be an infringement of copyright. You may not distribute, email, or otherwise communicate these materials to any other person. These limitations extend to recording, photographing, or sharing lectures (online or in-person) and lecture material without permission. Posting the instructor's content from this course to online course sharing sites like OneClass or Course Hero without permission is both an infringement of intellectual property law and a violation of academic integrity guidelines. The instructor will pass these cases on to the Western University Ombudsperson or their Department Chair as appropriate.

Religious Accommodation

Students should consult the University's list of recognized religious holidays, and should give reasonable notice in writing, prior to the holiday, to the Instructor and an Academic Counsellor if their course requirements will be affected by a religious observance. Additional information is given in the Western Multicultural Calendar.

Academic Offences

Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/scholastic_discipline_undergrad.pdf

Plagiarism

Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea or passage from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offence.

Plagiarism Checking

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com <http://www.turnitin.com>.

All instances of plagiarism will be reported to the Chair of Undergraduate Studies. Proven cases of plagiarism will result in a grade of zero for the assignment. Subsequent offences will result in failure for the course.
