Assignments:

In the fall term, two short essays and one longer essay are required. The short essays (500-750 words) will be on works of your choice, and should focus on and “unpack” an aspect of the works that you regard as significant and worthy of commentary. At least one of the short essays must be submitted before or on October 6, and the second before or on November 10. (You are encouraged to submit your short essays well before these deadlines, which, like objects in a rearview mirror, are closer than they appear.) Both should be handed in no later than 4.00 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding the seminar on the work(s) with which they deal so that their substance can be assured a place in the group's discussion. The longer essay (2,000-2,500 words, plus Works Cited) may emerge from one of the short essays or focus on a related or different topic. It may be submitted at any time after November 14, and no later than a week after the final seminar, which is on December 6.

In the winter term, a seminar presentation and a final research paper of not less than 2,500 words, plus Works Cited are required. The final essay may be based on the seminar presentation.

Policy on Late Essays:

Anyone who has a valid reason for not meeting an essay deadline must give me that reason before the due date and arrange for an extension. Otherwise, late essays will be penalized at a rate of 2% a day to a maximum of 10 days, including weekends, after which they may not be accepted.

Mark Distribution:

The brief first-term essays will be worth 10% each, the longer first-term essay 30%, the final essay 40%, with the remaining 10% based on attendance and participation.

Statement on Academic Offences:

"Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at the following website:

Graduate Course Health and Wellness:

As part of a successful graduate student experience at Western, we encourage students to make their health and wellness a priority. Western provides several on campus health-related services to help you achieve optimum health and engage in healthy living while pursuing your graduate degree. For example, to support physical activity, all students, as part of their registration, receive membership in Western's Campus Recreation Centre. Numerous cultural events are offered throughout the year. For example, please check out the Faculty of Music web page at <http://www.music.uwo.ca/>, the Faculty of Arts and Humanities web page at <https://www.uwo.ca/arts/> and the McIntosh Gallery web page at <http://www.mcintoshgallery.ca/>. Information regarding health- and wellness-related services available to students may be found at <http://www.health.uwo.ca/>. Students seeking help regarding mental health concerns are advised to speak to someone they feel comfortable confiding in, such as their faculty supervisor, their program director (graduate chair), or other relevant administrators in their unit. Campus mental health resources may be found at http://www.health.uwo.ca/mental_health/resources.html.
