REQUISITES, PLAGIARISM, ACCOMMODATION, & C.:
Senior courses numbered 2200 and above require a 1.0 course in English at the first-year level.

Students must pass both term work and the final examination (in courses with final examinations) in order to pass the course. Students who fail the final examination (regardless of their term mark) automatically fail the course.

The Academic Calendar states: “Any student who, in the opinion of the instructor, is absent too frequently from class or laboratory periods in any course, will be reported to the Dean of the Faculty offering the course (after due warning has been given). On the recommendation of the department concerned, and with the permission of the Dean of that Faculty, the student will be debarred from taking the regular examination in the course.”

Senate Statement on Plagiarism: “Students must write their essays and assignments in their own words. Whenever students take an idea, or a passage of text from another author, they must acknowledge their debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper referencing such as footnotes or citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offense (see Scholastic Offense Policy in the Western Academic Calendar). Plagiarism checking: The University of Western Ontario uses software for plagiarism checking. Students may be required to submit their work in electronic form for plagiarism checking.”

Please attend to the statement on plagiarism on the “information for students” sheet.

Students seeking academic accommodation on medical grounds for any missed tests, exams, participation components and/or assignments worth (either alone or in combination) 10% or more of their final grade must apply to the Academic Counselling office of their home Faculty and provide documentation. Academic accommodation cannot be granted by the instructor or department.

Documentation shall be submitted, as soon as possible, to the Office of the Dean of the student’s Faculty of registration, together with a request for relief specifying the nature of the accommodation being requested. The Student Medical Certificate (SMC) can be found at:
http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/handbook/appeals/medicalform.pdf

The full policy is set out here:
http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/handbook/appeals/accommodation_medical.pdf

Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to MentalHealth@Western:

SECOND ESSAY DUE
Apr 8 Revision Class
Coursework Assignments:

ESSAY ONE:

A 2,000 word essay. Questions will be given in class four weeks into the semester. Your essay must draw critically on one piece of secondary reading that is relevant to your topic of discussion. Spark notes and its equivalents on the market or internet may be consulted (and if consulted, should be included in your bibliography), but do not fulfill this assignment’s secondary reading requirement. Please note the warning about plagiarism elsewhere in the course guide – if you’re unsure about your scholarly practice, please come and discuss it with your instructor.

The essay must include a bibliography; don’t forget to cite your primary reading. While demonstrating a knowledge of relevant criticism is important, formulating a cogent argument, supported with close readings of the text, is essential.

ESSAY TWO:

A 2,500 word essay. Requirements are as above except that your second essay must draw critically on TWO pieces of secondary reading that are relevant to your topic of discussion.

CLASS DISCUSSION:

On four occasions – October 6th, November 3rd, February 2nd, and March 16th – an hour of class time will be devoted to group discussion of written responses. A week before each discussion, I shall set a question arising from the assigned reading. Students will write a short (500 words) response for discussion the following week. In class, students will read their responses to one another and discuss them in a collegial and constructive manner. Students will submit their written response at the end of the class, and up to a page of comments that take on board points raised in discussion. The two elements will be graded 75%/25% respectively. Your best three responses will count.

COMMONPLACE BOOK:

There scarcely can be a thing more useful, even to ancient, and popular sciences, than a solid and good aid to memory; that is a substantial and learned digest of common places...because it is a counterfeit thing in knowledge, to be forward and pregnant, unless you be withal deep and full; I hold that the diligence and pains in collecting common-places, is of great use and certainty in studying; as that which subministers copy to invention; and contracts the sight of judgement to a strength.

—Francis Bacon, The Advancement of Learning

The Commonplace book was a central Renaissance method of gathering and organizing material from reading for use in composition at a later date. While there were many variations in methods of commonplacing, they all involved the consistent practice of collecting excerpts while reading, either by marking the margins of text for later copying or by copying as one read. These quotations were then transferred to a commonplace book in which they were organized by topic. Indeed, the English word “topic” derives from the Greek term for place, topos.

The use of commonplaces is derived from the rhetorical practice of invention: the process of finding arguments to support your case in a formal speech. This method became generalized to include the collection of quotations, or sententiae, drawn from important authors which might be used for illustration or ornament. There are two important metaphors used to describe the process: bees gathering nectar from flowers and transforming it into honey; and the process of consuming and digesting books (thus Reader’s Digest). As this tradition evolved during the Renaissance, the aim was to produce a style of writing marked by copia—a varied style, with frequent and subtle allusion to classical and scriptural authority, displaying the writer’s familiarity with and command of learned and literary culture.

Use of the commonplace book is intended to be a central part of the course, and of each student’s reading. During the course you should compile a collection of quotations from the poems that you find interesting or pleasing. You should aim to gather around five quotations each week, for a total of around 120 for the whole year. Each quotation should be assigned to an appropriate topical heading.

The practice of assigning quotations to different headings is an important part of the exercise, because it accustoms you to think in terms of the categories which organized knowledge in the Early Modern period, and, in doing so, guides your reading in the future. You should make your collection either in an exercise book, with separate pages assigned to each topic, or electronically, printed out for submission on the due dates. In either case, you should cite for each commonplace the poem from which it comes. No individual commonplace should be longer than four lines.

Here are a series of basic topics for your commonplace book. Feel free to add to or change the list that you use in order to reflect your own interests.

- Faith
- Kingship
- Virtue
- Vice
- Love
- Nature
- Science
- Time
- Conscience
- Reading and Writing
- Marriage
- Beauty
- Fortune
- Reason
- Truth
- Travel
- Liberty
- Nobility
- Family
- Single Life
- Education
- Discipline
- Desire
- the Body
- Doubt
- Justice
- Friendship
- Masculinity
- Grief
It is appropriate to list the same quotation under different topical headings if it is relevant to more than one, but that quotation does not count twice towards the total number of quotations you are expected to gather.

You must submit your commonplace book for evaluation October 8th, February 11th and April 8th. The commonplace exercise is worth 5% of your final grade. You will be assessed based upon the number and variety of your quotations and their appropriateness to their assigned topic. I will return your commonplace book at the final exam, where it may be used as a memory aid, quotation reference, etc. Please remember: no individual commonplace should be longer than four lines.

SUBMISSION OF ASSIGNMENTS:

Essays and commonplace books may be submitted in class, given to me in person, sent to me (at the Department) by post or courier, or may be submitted in the Department of English office (Arts and Humanities Building, 2G02). Note that items submitted before 8:30 a.m. in the essay box are stamped with the previous day’s date and I accept those datings.

Do not put assignments under my office door or email or fax assignments. Assignments submitted in these ways will not be accepted.

Please keep a copy of all assignments submitted.

GRACE DAYS:

You are each given THREE grace days, which you can use all at once, or allocate between your assignments. PLEASE NOTE, HOWEVER, THAT I AM UNABLE TO ACCEPT ANY ASSIGNMENTS AFTER WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8TH.

When your grace days are gone, they are gone, and you are faced with a late assignment (see next section).

In view of these days and of the advance notice given for each assignment, further extensions will only be given in accordance with the statement on academic accommodation on the first page of this guide.

LATE ASSIGNMENTS.

If you submit an assignment after the due date (plus whatever grace days you have remaining) but within two weeks of it, the grade will be reduced by a penalty of two marks (2%) for each calendar day that it is late. The arrangements for date-stamping essays in the Department of English essay box are accepted for late essays.
