Course Description: During the nineteenth century novels became the privileged medium in which British society viewed itself as a whole made up of interrelated parts. The period also saw unprecedented change in novelistic technique and in the business of publishing novels. This course will study these and other developments in prose fiction.

Course Objectives: In this course you will read six novels and a selection of shorter fiction from nineteenth century Britain. The course will cover major features of nineteenth century realism in fiction, including the manipulation of time, place, and point of view. We will discuss the relation of realist fiction to other genres, including historical writing and fantasy. Historical topics to be discussed will include industrialization, changes in landownership, and the rise of capitalism; gender, class, and sexuality; race, imperialism, and the fear of degeneration.

The course will also give training in critical interpretation, in finding and reading criticism, and in aspects of writing including sentence and paragraph construction. Our class meetings will offer a supportive environment where you can practice speaking to a group about the range of topics treated in our novels.

Assignments:

---Complete the reading assignments by the dates specified.  Come to class prepared to ask and answer questions about the assigned readings. In every Monday class students will be asked to present oral answers to a question on the reading; the same questions will also be posted to a thread in the facebook group. You will be given credit for your participation both in class and on facebook. The question to be asked each Monday will be announced the previous class and will be posted on facebook. Your attendance and participation in class discussions will determine 10% of your final grade in the course. This portion of the grade will be reduced to 0 for any student with more than 8 unexcused absences from class. Any student whose participation has been unsatisfactory to that point will receive written notification on or before November 15.

--There will be four papers. During the year, you will write three 1000 word papers on assigned topics about nineteenth century fiction. The papers will be due on dates indicated on the syllabus; the first is due October 23. Each 1000-word paper will be worth 10% of your final grade.

--At the end of second term you will turn in a 2500 word interpretative essay on a topic of your choice. In writing this paper, you will be required to refer to some of the relevant critical literature. (20% final grade)

--There will be four short in-class quizzes during the year.  If you are unavoidably constrained to miss one, please speak to Prof. Rowlinson in advance about an adjustment to your grade, which will otherwise be 0. There will be no make-up quizzes.  (5 % final grade)

--Finally, there will be a final exam. You will be allowed to use the course textbooks in writing this exam. (35% final grade).

--If you wish academic accommodation on medical grounds for any missed assignment worth more than 10% of your final grade, you must apply to the Academic Counselling office, where you will be asked to provide documentation.

Papers: Please submit your papers double-spaced, in 12-point font, on 8.5 x 11” paper. Use 1” margins. You should use the citation format of the MLA Handbook. The manual is available on the reference shelves of Weldon library; if you are unfamiliar with the protocols of scholarly citation, please ask for assistance.

Papers should be submitted in class on the due date or at the English department drop-box. Extensions on papers should be arranged in advance of the due date; if you anticipate that you will need an extension, please speak to the instructor in person as early as possible. Requests for extensions made by e-mail will not be granted except in exceptional circumstances. In the absence of an extension, late papers may be penalized.

Plagiarism: Write your assignments using your own ideas expressed in your own words. Whenever you take an idea or a passage of text from another author, be sure to acknowledge the debt both by using quotation marks where appropriate and by proper citations. For the English department’s policies on plagiarism, please see the Information for Students page on the department website:

https://www.uwo.ca/english/undergraduate/Student%20Information.html

All instances of plagiarism will be reported to the Chair of Undergraduate Studies. Proven cases of plagiarism will result in a grade of zero for the assignment. Subsequent offences will result in failure for the course.

Prerequisites: Prerequisites: At least 60% in 1.0 of English 1020E or English 1022E or English 1024E or English 1035E or English 1036E or English 1042E or both of English 1027F/G and English 1028F/G, or permission of the instructor. Unless you have either the requisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. This decision may not be appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites.

Accommodation

Students seeking academic accommodation on medical grounds for any missed tests, exams, participation components and/or assignments worth 10% or more of their final grade must apply to the Academic Counselling office of their home Faculty and provide documentation. Academic accommodation cannot be granted by the instructor or department. Documentation shall be submitted, as soon as possible, to the Office of the Dean of the student’s Faculty of registration, together with a request for relief specifying the nature of the accommodation being requested. Academic Consideration for Missed Work
Students who are seeking academic consideration for missed work during the semester may submit a self-reported absence form online provided that the absence is 48 hours or less and the other conditions specified in the Senate policy at https://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/Academic_Consideration_for_absences.pdf are met.

Students whose absences are expected to last longer than 48 hours, or where the other conditions detailed in the policy are not met (e.g., work is worth more than 30% of the final grade, the student has already used 2 self-reported absences, the absence is during the final exam period), may receive academic consideration by submitting a Student Medical Certificate (for illness) or other appropriate documentation (for compassionate grounds). The Student Medical Certificate is available online at https://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/medicalform.pdf. All students pursuing academic consideration, regardless of type, must contact their instructors no less than 24 hours following the end of the period of absence to clarify how they will be expected to fulfill the academic responsibilities missed during their absence. Students are reminded that they should consider carefully the implications of postponing tests or midterm exams or delaying submission of work, and are encouraged to make appropriate decisions based on their specific circumstances. Students who have conditions for which academic accommodation is appropriate, such as disabilities or ongoing or chronic health conditions, should work with Accessible Education Services to determine appropriate forms of accommodation.
