

FACULTY POSITION
Tenure-Track
Assistant Professor
School of Kinesiology

Integrative Exercise Physiology

The School of Kinesiology in the Faculty of Health Sciences at Western University promotes the benefits of physical activity and sport to society by providing a multidisciplinary approach to discovery, dissemination, and application of related knowledge and outcomes. The School of Kinesiology is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive together. We work towards constructing a dynamic, supportive space that integrates principles of equity, diversity, inclusion, decolonization, and accessibility among all members. Kinesiology is home to the International Centre for Olympic Studies (including Paralympic Studies), and the Sport and Social Impact Research Group. Kinesiology at Western is ranked 26th in the world for Sport Related Subjects (QS 2023). The School of Kinesiology champions three research clusters focusing on Physical Activity and 1) Brain Health, 2) Mobility, and 3) Social Impact with strong links to Faculty Research Centres in Activity and Aging, and Health Equity and Social Inclusion.

We are seeking a probationary (tenure-track) faculty colleague at the rank of Assistant Professor in Integrative Exercise Physiology. Scholars whose research emphasizes brain-heart interactions in health and/or disease are particularly encouraged. The successful candidate's research will complement work being done in the Brain Health and Mobility research clusters regarding cardiovascular and exercise biochemistry related to health benefits of physical activity across the lifespan. The ideal candidate will be an innovative thinker prepared to work in interdisciplinary environments, demonstrate potential for excellence in research, with a strong prospective of securing external research funding and produce high quality scholarly/creative outputs aligned with one or more of the Faculty of Health Sciences Research Centres/Groups. The successful candidate will be expected to teach existing courses while also developing new courses in the School that extend the curriculum and will also be expected to supervise graduate students.

The School of Kinesiology is committed to the principles of equity, diversity, and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The successful candidate will contribute to the ongoing work that considers how intersecting relationships of power shape individuals, groups, cultures, and ways of knowing. Their teaching and research will demonstrate potential for meaningful engagement with, and be inclusive of, students from equity-seeking communities. The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in relevant service to the School of Kinesiology, Faculty of Health Sciences, and the University, and have a demonstrated capacity to contribute substantively to an inclusive and diverse academic community.

Candidates must either hold a PhD in Kinesiology, or a related field. In addition, the impact of certain circumstances that may legitimately affect a candidate's teaching and research will be given careful consideration. Candidates are encouraged to provide any relevant information about their experience and/or career interruptions.

The effective date of the appointment is July 1, 2025, or as negotiated. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Western University delivers an academic experience second to none. Western challenges the best and brightest faculty, staff, and students to commit to the highest global standards. Our research excellence expands knowledge and drives discovery with real-world application. Western attracts individuals with a broad worldview, seeking to study, influence, and lead in the international community. Since 1878, The Western Experience has combined academic excellence with life-long opportunities for intellectual, social, and cultural growth in order to better serve our communities.

Interested applicants are invited to submit a complete application package, as a single PDF file, containing the following:

- Application for Full-Time Faculty Position form
- Cover letter that outlines their interest and qualifications for the role, program of research as it complements and extends existing research in the School/Faculty and a statement on Equity, Diversity, Inclusion, Decolonization, and Accessibility in relation to their academic activities
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching dossier
- Names and contact information of three academic referees

The application package can be submitted via email to:
