Number of Positions: 1

Posting Date: October 20, 2026

Closing Date to Apply: Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Anticipated Start Date: January 1, 2027 or as negotiated

Position Profile:
The Department of Medicine, Division of Dermatology, Schulich School of Medicine & Dentistry, at Western University and London Health Sciences Centre and St. Joseph's Health Care Centre are seeking a physician for full-time clinical academic appointment to Western University.

Academic and Clinical Expectations: The Division of Dermatology is seeking an academic Dermatologist whose clinical focus lies within medical dermatology. The successful candidate will have completed recognized subspecialty training aligned with their area of focus and will demonstrate strong clinical expertise in the assessment and management of complex dermatologic conditions. They must have a strong interest in fostering collaborative, multidisciplinary models of care and in working harmoniously with division members, colleagues across related specialties, and allied health professionals to support comprehensive patient management. Applicants should be certified, or eligible for certification, in Dermatology by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, or equivalent. Candidates must have an MD, or equivalent, and must be eligible for licensure by the College of Physicians & Surgeons of Ontario (CPSO) in the province of Ontario

Qualifications or Experience and Skills Required: Applicants for this Clinician Teacher academic position must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and clinical education. They should have a clear record of involvement in medical education, including experience teaching learners at various stages such as medical students, residents, or fellows. The applicant must show evidence of educational effectiveness through (1) participation in formal training or coursework in medical education or teaching methodology; (2) a track record of high-quality teaching evaluations or demonstrated educational leadership; and (3) the ability to collaborate effectively with colleagues in designing and delivering educational experiences. Engagement in curriculum development, assessment strategies, or innovative educational initiatives in dermatology will be considered an asset.

The successful candidate will provide care in both general and subspecialty dermatology clinics and will contribute to inpatient dermatology consultation services. They will participate in citywide call responsibilities as appropriate to dermatology practice. They will also be expected to provide high-quality teaching to medical students, residents, and fellows in both clinical and academic settings, contributing to the division's mission of excellence in education, patient-centered care, and scholarly advancement.

Consideration of applicants will include an assessment of previous performance in teaching, research, health care leadership, qualifications (including subspecialty and enhanced training), experience and interpersonal skills.

Compensation Details: Compensation for this position will be commensurate with qualifications and experience and will be primarily composed of the following sources: Fee for service (OHIP billings), Alternative Funding Plan, academic salary, and specialty review funding.

Affirmation Policy Statement: Western, like many postsecondary institutions in Canada, is moving beyond sole reliance upon Indigenous self-identification in its hiring processes. This is to safeguard against the use of incorrect, incomplete, or misleading information in circumstances in which a candidate has made a declaration of Indigenous citizenship or membership. Candidates who are invited for an interview or who are short-listed, and who have made a declaration of Indigenous citizenship or membership for material advantage at Western, including where required or preferred for the position, will be asked to have their declaration of Indigenous citizenship or membership (First Nations, Métis, and Inuit) affirmed through a relational accountability process, led by the Office of Indigenous Initiatives (OII), that is consistent with Indigenous ways of knowing, being, and doing. Please contact the OII directly for details on the affirmation processes: https://indigenous.uwo.ca/. The policy can be viewed at: POLICY 1.58 - Affirming Declarations of Indigenous Citizenship or Membership at Western University
