

FACULTY POSITION

Limited-Term – Lecturer or Assistant Professor

The School of Health Studies invites applications for a 3-year Limited-Term faculty position at the rank of Lecturer or Assistant Professor. This position would suit someone whose primary interest and career path is focused on education. The School of Health Studies, one of six Schools in the Faculty of Health Sciences, is home to a large undergraduate Bachelor of Health Sciences (BHSc) program, and contributes significantly to the Faculty-wide Health & Rehabilitation Sciences graduate program, the joint graduate program in Health Information Science and the Interfaculty Program in Public Health.

The School of Health Studies is a leader in transformative interdisciplinary and international education, research and knowledge mobilization regarding health and wellbeing and health care across the life course. Our mission is to nurture the creativity, curiosity, and critical thinking of tomorrow's global leaders in health and wellbeing. Our undergraduate BHSc curriculum provides students with foundational and specialized training in the personal and social determinants of health. The interdisciplinary focus of the School of Health Studies is unique in the Faculty of Health Sciences, making it an ideal place to examine rapidly evolving health environments and diverse health-related experiences through an integrated, diverse set of disciplinary perspectives. Our innovative research programs address the health and wellbeing of children, youth, adults, and older adults inclusive of marginalized populations.

Health Studies at Western is interdisciplinary with colleagues engaged in research and scholarly activity across the life course (from early childhood to aging and end-of-life), and in health promotion, health policy, population and public health, law, mental health, aging, political and social sciences. We welcome applications from scholars who will be able to teach a range of courses related to health science and across the life course. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated capacity to contribute substantively to an inclusive and diverse academic community. Qualified applicants must have a PhD or Master's degree in a related health science field, have demonstrated excellence in teaching in the area of health, and an enthusiasm for quality education. Applicants must have a commitment to and evidence of the ability to provide high quality, innovative and contemporary teaching in both traditional and flexible learning environments, including online delivery. Evidence of engagement or prior working relationships with relevant community partner organizations and an interest in experiential learning will also be considered an asset given the School's focus on evidence and practice-based education. The successful candidate will be expected to participate in relevant service to both the School of Health Studies and the broader university community. The position will commence on July 1, 2022 or as negotiated. Salary and rank commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Western University delivers an academic experience second to none. Western challenges the best and brightest faculty, staff, and students to commit to the highest global standards. Western has an ambitious Indigenous Strategic Plan and Western's Data Strategy. Our research excellence expands knowledge and drives discovery with real-world application. Western attracts individuals with a broad worldview, seeking to study, influence and lead in the international community. Since 1878, The Western Experience has combined academic excellence with life-long opportunities for intellectual, social, and cultural growth to better serve our communities.

Interested applicants are invited to submit a complete application package, as a single PDF file, containing the following:

- Application for Full-time Faculty Position form
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching dossier including a brief statement about teaching scholarship
- Cover letter that outlines their interest and qualifications for the role, and a statement on Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion in relation to their academic activities
- Names and contact information of three academic references

The application package can be submitted via email to:

Dr. Rachel Forrester-Jones, Professor and Director
School of Health Studies
Faculty of Health Sciences
Western University
222 - Arthur & Sonia Labatt Health Sciences Building
London, Ontario, Canada N6A 5B9
rforre@uwo.ca

The deadline for receipt of applications is May 2, 2022.
Please quote number HS-242 on all correspondence.

Effective September 7, 2021, all employees and visitors to campus are required to comply with Western's COVID-19 Vaccination Policy.

Positions are subject to budget approval. Applicants should have fluent written and oral communication skills in English. The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Western is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, members of racialized groups/visible minorities, Indigenous peoples/Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities persons of any sexual orientation, and persons of any gender identity or gender expression.

In accordance with Canadian Immigration requirements, priority will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents.

Accommodations are available for applicants with disabilities throughout the recruitment process. If you require accommodations for interviews or other meetings, please contact Kyla Urquhart kurquha@uwo.ca, Administrative Assistant to the School Director at 519-661-2111 ext. 88910.

Posted on Faculty Relations website March 31, 2021 (#2022-039)