

SciencesPo

FRANCE'S LEADING UNIVERSITY
IN THE SOCIAL SCIENCES

OPEN TO THE WORLD

Founded in 1872, Sciences Po is France's leading university in the social sciences. For nearly 150 years, Sciences Po has educated decision-makers in the public and private sectors. Our college offers a three-year undergraduate degree that includes a year abroad at one of our 478 partner universities. There are seven graduate schools composed of 27 master's degrees and five PhD programmes.

Sciences Po offers over 40 dual degrees with partner universities, including Columbia University in New York, the London School of Economics and Peking University. We also provide executive education with 14 dedicated executive master's degrees and over 100 customised training programmes.

Sciences Po offers a multidisciplinary, multilingual and outward looking education. In order to provide a comprehensive curriculum, Sciences Po places great emphasis on fundamental academic courses, professional training and extra-curricular activities. Sciences Po also integrates digital teaching methods into its programmes and continues to develop innovative teaching platforms, such as MOOCs.

Following completion of their degree, Sciences Po graduates possess unique profiles which are highly sought by leading recruiters. 84% of Sciences Po graduates are hired within six months of graduation and 34% start their career abroad.

Our goal is to open minds and develop critical thinking. We seek to provide students with the essential tools that will enable them to make sense of a complex world. We also provide students with a truly international environment. Our student community comprises 14,000 students - half are international, coming from 150 countries.

As a research university, Sciences Po is focused on excellence, and demands the highest standards from faculty and students. Sciences Po also holds a high degree of social responsibility, and continues to play a pioneering role in the promotion of diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. Sciences Po has an array of financial aid for students of all origins and 26% of the student body hold a scholarship.

DISCOVER OUR MULTICULTURAL CAMPUSES

Sciences Po's 7 campuses are home to a tight-knit multicultural student community and feature a vibrant intellectual and associative student life.

Dijon Campus

Located in the region of Burgundy in a magnificent 19th century building, the Dijon campus was created in 2001.

Le Havre Campus

On the coast of Normandy, Le Havre has hosted a campus since 2007. Located at the entrance to the port, the Le Havre campus stands out for its all-glass architecture and the red and white lightship docked in front of it.

Menton Campus

Established in the French Riviera city of Menton in 2005, the campus is located in an entirely renovated 19th century building overlooking the Mediterranean.

Paris Campus

Located in the heart of the French capital in the Saint-Germain-des-Prés neighbourhood near the Louvre Museum, the Seine and the Luxembourg Gardens, the Paris campus is the birthplace of Sciences Po, the site where the institution was founded in 1872.

Our future expansion of the Paris campus

Living in France

Students attending university in France are exposed to French culture in their daily lives. The attractiveness of France as a study destination for international students continues to grow in 2018, with nearly two-thirds (64%) of respondents in a recent Campus France survey listing France as the first non-English speaking destination. In 2018, Paris came in 5th place in the QS Best Student Cities ranking.

Poitiers Campus

Opened in 2010, the campus is located in the heart of the historical city of Poitiers in the Hôtel Chaboureau, a renovated building dating from the 15th Century.

Established in the region of Lorraine in 2000, the Nancy campus is located in a prestigious 18th century heritage site, the Hôtel des Missions Royales.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

The Bachelor of Arts at Sciences Po

A multidisciplinary foundation in the humanities and social sciences

Sciences Po offers a three-year Bachelor of Arts degree with a multidisciplinary foundation in the humanities and social sciences and an emphasis on civic, linguistic, artistic, and digital education.

The Bachelor of Arts pursues three core ambitions:

- > Teaching to understand a complex world.
- > Providing students with methods adapted to respond to diverse challenges.
- > Instilling in students a sense of duty to contribute to their society.

Educate enlightened citizens

Courses offered by the undergraduate college allow students to grasp the challenges and evolutions of contemporary societies, and offer them the tools to think critically and act ethically. The goal is to educate enlightened and inventive citizens who work towards the common good.

The Civic Learning Programme

All undergraduate students engage in a civic engagement over the three years of the Bachelor's degree. The Civic Learning Programme is a chance to learn and understand citizenship and social responsibility through a community internship that emphasises autonomy, consensus building and personal ethic.

A progressive and international curriculum

Two years in France and one year abroad

Undergraduates spend their first two years on a Sciences Po campus before pursuing their third and final year at one of Sciences Po's 470 partner universities. On all campuses, students choose a multidisciplinary major - Economy & Society, Political Humanities, or Politics & Government. Each campus offers a different regional concentration that anchors students' intellectual objectives: Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America, Middle East-Mediterranean, and North America.

› First year: Learning the fundamentals

Undergraduate students are introduced to the disciplines and methods taught at Sciences Po - economics, history, humanities, law, political science, and sociology. Certain courses are related to the regional concentrations offered on each campus.

› Second year: Acquiring intellectual autonomy

Students choose a major - Economy & Society, Political Humanities, or Politics & Government -, explore a range of multidisciplinary courses, and interact with the research methodologies linked to their chosen major.

Extra-Curricular Learning

In addition to the teaching provided by teacher-researchers and professionals, field experience is encouraged in the form of study tours, internships, simulations, collective projects, associative and union activities.

› Third year: Expanding one's academic project

During their year abroad, undergraduates complete their major at a partner university. This international academic experience may be complemented by an internship. The degree culminates with a capstone project.

One degree, countless opportunities

Upon completion of the BA, students are equipped to pursue graduate studies at one of Sciences Po's seven graduate schools or at any of the world's most competitive universities. Common fields of study include communications, economics, finance, international affairs, journalism, law, organisational behaviour, and public affairs.

International Dual Bachelor's Degrees

Two years at Sciences Po + two years at the partner university

Sciences Po offers dual Bachelor's degrees with nine of the world's leading universities, allowing students to study as fully-integrated members of two distinct academic cultures. Students from all around the world are recruited jointly by both institutions and form close-knit cohorts that are fully-integrated into the larger communities of their two universities.

The first two years of all dual Bachelor's programmes take place on one of Sciences Po's campuses, where participants pursue the undergraduate curriculum and their choice of major. In years 3 and 4 at the partner university, students pursue a major offered by the host institution. Upon successful completion of the two curricula, students graduate with two Bachelor's degrees, offering exceptional access to prestigious graduate studies or to entry into the job market.

GRADUATE STUDIES

Seven graduate schools that prepare for professional life

Graduate studies at Sciences Po are hosted within seven schools, all located on our campus in Paris. The seven schools offer a wide variety of master's programmes that take place over two years, all tailored to the professional world. We also offer international dual degrees, in which students spend one year at Sciences Po and one year abroad at the partner university.

Graduate studies at Sciences Po are based on common principles of internationalisation, active pedagogy, academic theory and applied project work.

28 Master's programmes are open to students with a Bachelor's degree or equivalent. Each programme has four 12-week semesters. One semester is spent completing an internship or a field study, writing a Master's thesis, or studying at a Sciences Po partner university. Programmes are taught in French or English; some require both languages. Certain programmes allow students to complete an apprenticeship during their second year.

One-year Master's programmes deliver an intensive curriculum designed for young professionals who want to develop the expertise necessary to accelerate their careers. Programmes are offered in English and in French.

PhD programmes

offer solid training in research. Students study for their PhD in one of Sciences Po's 11 research centres.

TUITION FEES

At Sciences Po, we believe that financial barriers should never get in the way of education. Tuition fees are relatively lower than other world-class universities as a result of our proactive social policy to be an open and inclusive university.

Tuition fees are determined according to parents' tax residence rather than the student's nationality:

> Students whose parents' tax residence is within the European Economic Area pay fees according to a sliding scale, from €0 to €10,700/year for the undergraduate programmes and from €0 to €14,700/year for the graduate programmes.

> Students whose parents' tax residence falls outside of the European Economic Area will pay fees of €10,700/year for the undergraduate programmes and €14,700 for the graduate programmes.

Did you know?

In 2018, 33% of all Sciences Po students paid no tuition fees at all. Exemption is granted to CROUS scholarship holders, to non-scholarship holders from a low-income household, as well as to any student with a disability.

Tuition Fee Table for Students of the European Economic Area

SCHOLARSHIPS AND FINANCIAL AID

To ensure that all students admitted to Sciences Po can smoothly and successfully complete their studies, Sciences Po has substantially expanded its social aid policy.

European students

European students receiving the CROUS scholarship are not only exempt from paying tuition fees, but also receive a significant top-up grant from Sciences Po. Although European students are only eligible for the CROUS scholarship starting in their second year of living in France, Sciences Po substitutes the CROUS scholarship during their first year of studies.

Sciences Po also offers financial aid to European students with limited household income but who are not eligible for the CROUS scholarship.

What is a CROUS scholarship?

European students who have studied in France for at least one year are eligible to apply for the CROUS need-based scholarship. These need-based scholarships are awarded by the French Ministry of Higher Education and Research to students under 28 years of age depending on family situation and household income. In 2018, 26% of Sciences Po students were CROUS scholarship holders.

Non-European Students

A large number of scholarships and financial aid opportunities are available for non-European students, amongst them:

The Emile Boutmy Scholarship

This scholarship is awarded by Sciences Po to first-time applicants from outside the European Economic Area who demonstrate academic excellence and fulfill the profile requirements. This scholarship can take the form of a partial or full tuition fee waiver and in some cases an additional cost of living scholarship.

Eiffel Scholarship

The Eiffel Scholarship is awarded by the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs to candidates from emerging countries. Other scholarships and financial aid are available for students from outside the European Economic Area, among them the Mastercard Foundation Scholars Program, the Campus France Scholarship, and more.

HOUSING, WELFARE & SUPPORT

Student Housing

The Sciences Po Housing Service can help you with your search for accommodation. Our staff will guide you towards the housing solution that best suits your needs. Various partnerships have been established allowing eligible students to receive accommodation in student residences.

Student Welfare and Support

Sciences Po's Student Welfare and Support Office offers:

- › Information on the social security system and the healthcare system
- › Help with applying for housing benefits with the French governmental agency CAF
- › One-off emergency financial assistance under specific conditions
- › Help finding a student job
- › Help and information on your administrative formalities

Disability and Accessibility

If you have a temporary or permanent disability or disabling health condition, Sciences Po will ensure that you receive the necessary support and adjustments to complete your chosen programme and immerse yourself in student life.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Two programmes, one unforgettable summer

The Summer School is an opportunity for students from all over the world to discover Sciences Po over the course of the summer. Participants have the opportunity to experience Sciences Po's academic environment and to become a part of its international community.

It features two distinct programmes: the University Programme, for university students and graduates, and the Pre-College Programme, for secondary school students.

The University Programme

The University Programme takes place on the Paris campus in two separate, four-week sessions during the months of June and July. Through its intensive academic programme, participants may delve into Sciences Po's core social sciences disciplines, study French language and culture, or mix both subjects.

The Pre-College Programme

The Pre-College Programme introduces secondary students to student life and academics at Sciences Po during two two-week sessions on both the Paris and Reims campuses. Open to students who are at least 15 years old at the time of the programme and enrolled in secondary school the following Fall.

STUDENT LIFE

A great variety of activities

Students can find a broad array of cultural, sporting and other extra-curricular activities at Sciences Po. More than 300 student associations, ranging from politics to philanthropy, provide opportunities for students to meet and share their passions.

Our Fields of Study

Our researchers study major issues such as public health, education, urban development, security, the environment and democracy all over the world.

Research at Sciences Po contributes to knowledge and debate in five overarching disciplines:

- > Law, particularly private and international law
- > Economics, focusing on issues such as international trade, monetary policies, labour markets and innovation
- > History, particularly political history and the study of conflicts, world history and the history of knowledge and cultures
- > Political science in all its forms: study of voter behaviour, international relations, compared political and cultural areas, political theory, administration and public policy
- > Sociology, and particularly organisational sociology, economic sociology and sociology of social stratification.

Research centres and programmes

Faculty members conduct their work in eleven research centres (six of which are affiliated with the French National Centre for Scientific Research - CNRS): Centre for Socio-Political Data (CDSP), Centre d'études européennes (CEE), Centre for International Studies and Research CERI), Centre de Recherches Politiques (CEVIPOF), Centre for History, Centre for the Sociology of Organisations (CSO), Economics Department, Law School, the medialab, and the Centre for Studies in Social Change (OSC). The Observatoire Français des Conjonctures Economiques (OFCE) rounds out this network.

In addition to these units, three major cross-cutting programmes – the LIEPP, DIME-SHS and MaxPo – were recently created.

EXECUTIVE EDUCATION

Reveal through education

It is becoming clearer each day that established knowledge and past experiences are no longer sufficient to face the current changes taking place in our society. For this reason, Sciences Po Executive Education established its mission to accompany executives, directors, and leaders in the public and private sector through their process of professional transformation and development.

Our pedagogy combines Sciences Po's expertise in the social sciences and interdisciplinary perspective with a firm foundation in professional realities. This unique outlook forms the basis of our 200 academic programs, including degree-granting programs, certificate programs, and short or customized training programs, which serve over 4,000 participants each year.

Transformative professional training

Custom programmes are tailored to meet the specific needs of your organisation. After mapping out and analysing the strategic issues to address, we work closely with you to craft a curriculum in line with your learning objectives. This collaborative approach ensures you develop the necessary skills and talents that will initiate, contribute and accelerate your organisation's transformation.
