

Programming my Digital Life

DH1011A/B - FALL 2025

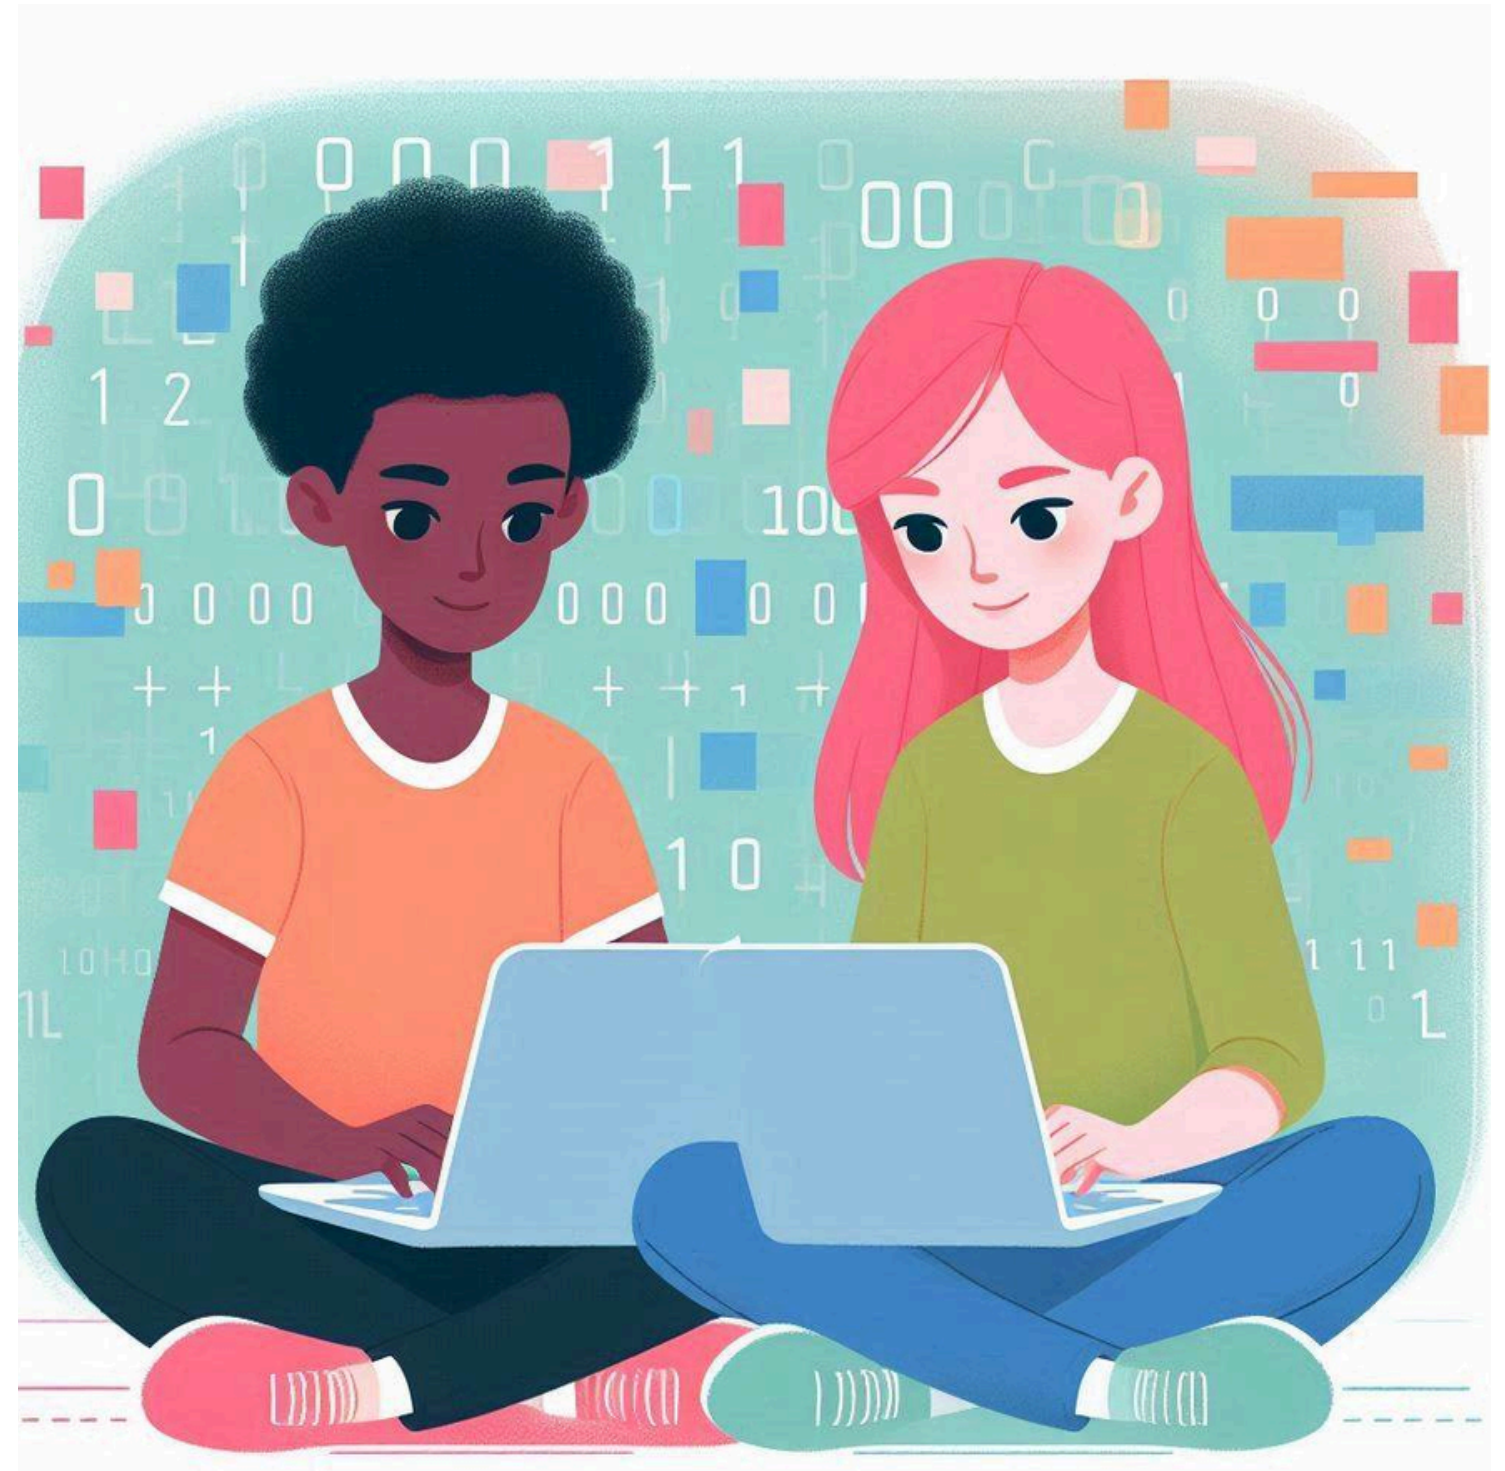

COURSE DESCRIPTION

How learning to code can currently impact and enhance your life?

Topics include Python coding, interaction with texts, images, sounds, APIs, maps, networks, visualizations, and more!

Get to explore topics in arts and humanities using the medium of code!

For student of all backgrounds: No prior experience is required.

DH1011 A/B counts towards the Minor in Digital Humanities at Western!

Values, Skills, and Knowledge

- Writing, testing, and presenting code in Python.
- Apply your knowledge and coding skills in everyday life case studies.
- Build a diverse personal coding portfolio.
- Learn to connect and work collaboratively with your peers.

Weekly Methodology

1 Hour - Lecture (in-Person)
2 Hours - Independent Work

10 % Engagement & Collaboration

18% - 3 Online Quizzes

36 % Coding Portfolio

36% Final Exam

Western
Arts&Humanities

CulturePlex

Code Your Future Today!