

Developing a Method for Evaluating Social Prescription as a Means of Supporting Individuals Suffering from Substance Misuse in Whitefish River First Nation Community

Isabelle Keng (ikeng@uwo.ca)
4th Year HSP One Health Undergraduate
Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine,
Schulich School Of Medicine & Dentistry
Western University, London, ON, Canada

Incorporating One Health into an Evaluation Plan

What is Social Prescription?

Prescribing a social, non-clinical, community activity to patients to improve their health and overall wellbeing

- Traditional fishing and fish smoking practices

Goal: To create an evaluation plan capable of answering the main objective questions

Main Objectives:

Does Social Prescription Work?

How to Track Changes?

What Role did Humans, the Environment, and Animals Play?