

McLeod M 11:30-2:30

Gender and Race

This course deals with various types of philosophical questions about gender and race, including metaphysical, epistemological, political, and ethical questions. The goals are to analyze how philosophers have approached these questions, and in doing so, to take seriously how gender and race intersect with one another.