*Note: if circumstances allow, this course will include small-group in-person meetings with one or both instructors in Stevenson Hall room 1145/1140. These meetings will be optional for students, and similar online meetings will be scheduled for students who cannot or chose not to attend in-person meetings.

DESCRIPTION
To say our society is racist, sexist, or the like is to say it is marked by systems and relationships of power that oppress some people and privilege others. This course examines these systems and relationships and considers what philosophers, in particular, have said about them. We will ask the following sorts of questions: what does it mean to be oppressed or be the target of something like racism? Can oppression be psychological and if so, in what sense? Can one be privileged and oppressed at the same time? How do different systems of oppression intersect and inform one another? We will aim to apply concepts like oppression and intersectionality to case studies, rather than simply interpret what they mean. Sample case studies include ones that focus on police violence against Black people, reproductive injustice toward Indigenous people, the misgendering of trans people, or actions taken to combat COVID-19 that are discriminatory toward people with disabilities.

TEXTS
All readings will be posted on our OWL site. There are no books that you need to purchase for this course.

OBJECTIVES
By the end of the course, students will be able to,

- Appreciate better what it means to have power in society and to be oppressed and/or privileged
- Understand philosophical theories about power, oppression, or privilege, along with how to apply these theories to case studies and to think critically about them
- Imagine how they could translate what they learn in this course into political action
In addition, through their assignments (see below under Requirements), students will develop or hone skills like the following:

- Interpreting and applying philosophical theories or concepts
- Critical analysis and writing
- Thoughtful engagement with others on controversial political or moral issues

REQUIREMENTS

1) Scaffolding Writing Assignments:
   a) Summary of a case study chosen by the student that concerns power, oppression, or privilege: 10%
   b) Critical summary of a philosophical theory relevant to the case study chosen in a): 10%
   c) Essay that analyzes the case study in a): 25%

2) Participation in group activities (e.g., online forum, synchronous hour online): 10%

3) Tests and Quizzes: 25%

4) End of term take-home assignment (with the option of being assessed orally): 20%

Details about assignments will be available on our OWL site under Resources.

AUDIT

Students wishing to audit the course should consult with the instructor prior to or during the first week of classes.

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY POLICIES

The Department of Philosophy Policies which govern the conduct, standards, and expectations for student participation in Philosophy courses is available in the Undergraduate section of the Department of Philosophy website at http://uwo.ca/philosophy/undergraduate/policies.html.

It is your responsibility to understand the policies set out by the Senate and the Department of Philosophy, and thus ignorance of these policies cannot be used as grounds of appeal.

ACCOMMODATION

Students seeking academic accommodation on medical grounds for any missed tests, exams, participation components and/or assignments worth 10% or more of their final grade must apply to the Academic Counselling office of their home Faculty and provide documentation. Academic accommodation cannot be granted by the instructor or department. Documentation shall be submitted, as soon as possible, to the Office of the Dean of the student’s Faculty of registration, together with a request for relief specifying the nature of the accommodation being requested. The UWO Policy on Accommodation for Medical Illness and further information regarding this policy can be found at http://uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/accommodation_medical.pdf.

SELF-REPORTED ABSENCE FORM

Students who experience an unexpected illness or injury or an extenuating circumstance (48 hours or less) that is sufficiently severe to temporarily render them unable to meet academic requirements (e.g., attending lectures or labs, writing tests or midterm exams, completing and submitting assignments, participating in presentations) should self-declare using the online Self-Reported Absence portal. This option should be used in situations where the student expects to resume academic responsibilities within 48 hours or less. The following conditions are in place for self-reporting of medical or extenuating circumstances: http://westerncalendar.uwo.ca/PolicyPages.cfm?Command=showCategory&PolicyCategoryID=1&SelectedCalendar=Live&ArchiveID=#SubHeading_322

EVALUATION OF ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE
At least three days prior to the deadline for withdrawal from a course without academic penalty, students will receive assessment of work accounting for at least 15% of their final grade. For 3000- or 4000-level courses in which such a graded assessment is impracticable, the instructor(s) must obtain an exemption from this policy from the Dean and this exemption must be noted on the corresponding course syllabus. In rare instances and at the Dean’s discretion, other courses could receive a similar exemption, which also must be noted in the course syllabus.

COURSE ASSIGNMENT
The last day of scheduled classes in any course will be the last day on which course assignments will be accepted for credit in a course. Instructors will be required to return assignments to students as promptly as possible with reasonable explanations of the instructor's assessment of the assignment.

ACADEMIC OFFENCES
Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at the following Web site: http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/scholastic_discipline_undergrad.pdf

PLAGIARISM CHECKING
All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com http://www.turnitin.com.
