Chair’s Remarks

The new Chair of the Western University Board of Governors, R. Konrad, acknowledged Western’s 6th Annual Indigenous Awareness Week taking place the week of January 20 to 28, 2020.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

BG.20-01

The President’s report, distributed with the agenda, consisted of the following topics: mourning our students lost in flight PS752, remembering Richard M. Ivey, remembering Reva Gerstein, update on the Anti-Racism Working Group, the success of the fall preview day, an announcement of the incoming Federal Cabinet, and an RBC investment in Western’s data analytics and AI. The report also included the following senior academic appointment: Dr. John Yoo, the next Dean of the Schulich School of Medicine & Dentistry, beginning May 1, 2020.

The President advised the Board of his participation during the annual Indigenous Awareness Week and of the beautiful indigenous necklace that he had been presented with during a breakfast with the indigenous community on campus.

The President also noted to members the recent, positive remarks contained within Mayor
Ed Holder’s London’s State of the City Address relating to the University.

Lastly, the President noted the ongoing loss felt by the campus community in relation to the tragic deaths of the Iranian students and their travelling companions on Ukrainian International Airlines flight PS752. He advised members that the families of the students had been contacted through an interpreter and praised the work of the campus community members involved in the vigil held on campus.

REPORT OF THE PROPERTY & FINANCE COMMITTEE [Appendix II]

BG.20-05 MAPP 1.XX – Pets and Therapy Animals on Campus Policy

It was moved by C. Stephenson, seconded by S. Shortreed,

That the Board of Governors approve MAPP 1.XX – Pets and Therapy Animals Policy effective May 1, 2020.

CARRIED

M. Mills (Director, Health, Safety & Wellness) provided Board members with details relating to the feedback, development and consultation process relating to the MAPP 1.XX – Pets and Therapy Animals Policy. Changes to the policy were required after reports had been filed relating to health and safety concerns with pets on campus. Amongst the concerns brought to the attention of the Joint Occupational Health & Safety Committee were concerns relating to allergies to pets, fears or phobias of animals, and the impact of pets on campus to service animals. He noted that between 10-15% of people in North America have allergies to animals, and 2-5% have a phobia of animals. This information, as well as three incident reports filed to the Joint Occupational Health & Safety Committee, prompted the University to review its current policy for pets on campus and to consult with the campus community for further feedback. The new MAPP policy outlines the University’s expectations with respect to the responsibilities of pet and therapy animal owners, and the new process for accommodating and permitting animals on campus. He advised that at a high level, the policy will no longer permit animals within campus buildings, with the exception of animals for research, animals protected under the law, service animals covered under the (MAPP 1.47) Accessibility at Western policy, and those that are subject to pervisions within collective agreements.

A member requested clarification on the definition of a therapy pet pursuant to section C, subsection 100(ii). He suggested that the change in wording would afford greater equity between faculty and staff in relation to having a pet in an office. M. Mills (Director, Health, Safety & Wellness) advised the Board that he was hesitant to change the policy, as it had already been endorsed by the Joint Occupational Health & Safety Committee and that the removal of the term “third party service provider” could create ambiguity.

P. Eluchok (University Legal Counsel) expressed concerns that the change to the term would permit the definition to include pets rather than being restricted to service animals in campus buildings. He cautioned against the change in order to limit the possibility of discretionary interpretations. The use of the expression “third party service provider” in the policy was added with the intention that an animal permitted under this clause would have some training and be insured in the event that the animal caused any injury or harm to another person while on campus.

A member asked about the distinction between students, staff and faculty with respect to accommodations for pets on campus. P. Eluchok clarified that faculty members are subject to the UWOFA Collective Agreement and are permitted to have a pet in their office per the terms of the Collective Agreement.

The Chair noted that the Board could vote on the policy, with the understanding that the MAPP 1.XX – Pets and Therapy Animals Policy would return to the Board in a year. This proposal was accepted and the vote was passed based on this understanding.

It was moved by S. Bennett, seconded by G. Dick,

That the Board of Governors approve the revised MAPP Policy 2.5 Retention of Consultants: Adult, Accounting, and Tax Update, as shown in Appendix V, Annex 1.

CARRIED

A member requested clarification on Section 4.3, requesting that the policy be amended to include the terms “special meeting” or “e-meeting.” The Secretary advised members that By-law 1 already contains provisions for hosting electronic meetings.

A member asked whether the University’s auditors were undertaking both auditing and consulting work for the University, noting that best practice usually prescribed separation of these two types of engagements. L. Logan, Vice-President (Operations & Finance) advised the members that when the university is seeking a consultant, the practice is to secure multiple tenders for the work. If the best candidate for the work is affiliated to the University’s current external auditors, there is usually a sufficient degree of separation between the auditing arm and consulting arm of the external party to permit the work to be completed.
