That effective September 1, 2019 a Fall Reading Week be introduced during the 9th full week of the Fall term, and

It was moved by J. Hatch, seconded by M. Milde,

That the “Structure of the Academic Year” Policy be revised as shown in Exhibit V, Appendix 2, and

That the “Evaluation of Academic Performance” Policy be revised as shown in Exhibit V, Appendix 3. CARRIED

J. Hatch, Chair of the ad hoc Subcommittee on Fall Reading Week provided an overview of the Subcommittee’s Report to Senate. He noted that the ad hoc Subcommittee had raised concerns regarding the scheduling of the Fall Reading Week in conjunction with the Thanksgiving holiday, as the timing of the holiday changes annually, and feedback from student stakeholders indicated that the timing was too early in the term to provide relief from academic workload.

The ad hoc Subcommittee proposed reducing the number of teaching days from 62 to 60 days, to accommodate a Fall Reading Week to begin on the 3rd Monday after Thanksgiving. He noted that this timing would allow for three weekends to be available for the scheduling of mid-term exams.

A Senator asked whether the policy related to the required number of contact hours for undergraduate courses would be revised to reflect the reduction to a 12-week term. J. Hatch responded that this would be referred to the Senate Committee on Academic Policy and Awards for consideration.

The vote was taken on the amendment and CARRIED. The motion as amended was CARRIED.

CARRIED

J. Doerksen, Vice Provost (Academic Programs and Students) presented the new “Accommodation for Illness – Undergraduate Students” Policy. The slides from his presentation are attached as Appendix 1.

He informed Senators that the development of this policy involved a lengthy consultation process.

A Senator noted concerns relating to the administration of the policy, requesting clarification on how the increased workload relating to the requests would be addressed. J. Doerksen advised that the working group had acknowledged that there may be an initial increase in requests, but that the requests would likely decrease over time.

Responding to a request for clarification on whether the validity of the accommodation requests would be reviewed and if there would be any investigations into any false reporting, J. Doerksen noted that investigations would not apply to instances of self-reporting. He further advised that the process of self-reporting would be via an online portal.
A Senator requested clarification on the criteria for the accommodation and the rationale behind the 30% threshold proposed in the policy. J. Doerksen responded that a review of similar policies at other institutions found that policies were institution-specific, and a consistent standard was not found.

REPORT OF THE SENATE COMMITTEE ON UNIVERSITY PLANNING (SCUP) [Exhibit VI]

S.19-87 2019-20 University Operating and Capital Budgets

It was moved by L. Miller, seconded by M. Milde,

That Senate provide advice to the Board of Governors, through the President and Vice-Chancellor, recommending the approval of the 2019-20 University Operating and Capital Budgets (Exhibit VI, Appendix 1).

CARRIED

Prior to his presentation, the Provost offered thanks to colleagues across the University for their diligence in the preparation of the budget, noting particularly the work of staff in Institutional Planning and Budgeting.

A. Hrymak, Provost & Vice-President (Academic), presented the 2019-20 University Operating and Capital Budgets (detailed in Exhibit VI, Annex 1) of $792.2 million, which included a plan to draw $14M from reserve funds to help make up a 2.2% drop in revenues. The slides from his presentation are attached as Appendix 2. His presentation highlighted both the internal and external planning and budgetary contexts, operating revenues for 2019-20, new initiatives and priorities, tuition changes, enrolment expectations, operating expenditures, including recommendations for Faculties, and Support Units, university-wide expenditures, one-time expenditures, operating reserve forecast and an overview of the 2019-2020 capital budget.
Items discussed in the presentation to Senate included:

- Total revenues: $778.2 million (decrease of 2.2%)
- Total expenses: $792.2 million (increase of 0.3%)
- Endowed Chairs Matching Program ($12M)
- Space/facilities funding ($12M)
- Efficiency and Innovation Fund ($10M)
- Capital spending ($95.3M)
- Utilities and infrastructure ($8M)
- General maintenance ($14.3M)

A Senator requested clarification on the impact of the budget changes to the University’s staff. A. Hrymak, Provost & Vice-President (Academic), noted that over the two-year planning cycle the total full-time faculty complement will increase to 1,042 (2019) and decrease to 1,041 (2020).

R. Chelladurai (Associate VP (Planning, Budgeting & Information Technology) noted to Senate that in the current year (2018-19), there are 1,021 regular full-time staff in the Faculties – in total. The Faculty Plans project this to grow to 1,042 in 2019-20 and decline by one position to 1,041 in 2020-21.

In response to the question presented by Senator Grzyb (outlined in Appendix 3) A. Hrymak advised that Maintenance, Modernization, and Infrastructure (MMI) transfer and the FRSF Transfer to Capital is the policy of the Board of Governors and that the transfer amounts were consistent with other budget cycles. He further clarified that the transfers are intended for the maintenance of infrastructure on campus.

In response to the question presented by D. Belliveau, President of UWOFA (outlined in Appendix 3) A. Hrymak offered to host, if requested, an information session for Senators to further review and discuss the budget.

In response to the question presented by Senator Chant (outlined in Appendix 3) A. Hrymak clarified that the contributions to endowment funds have been reduced over the previous budget cycles from $25M to $12M. He further noted, with respect to the domestic tuition reduction impact to faculties, that the reduction in tuition revenue could be addressed with various methods. Increased enrolment could address the concern of revenue decreases, considering both international and domestic students.

Asked about whether there is the possibility of decreasing capital expenditures or endowments and using a portion of the allocated funds to off-set changes in spending on faculty or staff, A. Hrymak noted that the perceived growth in the Endowment Fund is, in part, due to philanthropic support. The contributions are intended to match the contributions provided via donors to the University.

In response to the question presented by Senator Trosow (outlined in Appendix 3) A. Hrymak noted that the funds transfers (Transfer of Operating Funds to Capital Funds for Special Initiatives – Table 8) are in place to support the long-term sustainability of the University. The transfers provide funding to future investment initiatives, such as the Endowed Chair matching, Efficiency/Innovation Fund, long-range space plan, and one-time faculty allocations.

A. Hrymak clarified that the capital for building projects (Capital Budget Sources of Funding – Table 17) outlined in the budget have various funding sources.

A Senator requested further information relating to the April 30, 2018 Combined Financial Statements for the University (Statement 3 and Note 15) relating to the unrestricted assets noted at $414,715M. L. Logan, Vice-President (Operations & Finance) advised Senators that the unrestricted net assets of $414,715M is a negative number. She clarified that the unrestricted net assets are comprised of provisions for future costs, including operating funds surplus, provisions for vacation pay, provisions for employee future benefits, and losses from University entities.

A Senator requested further details on the balances of current funds, as outlined in Table 14. L. Logan noted that the totals were reported in Table 15. She further clarified that funds transferred to capital funds are moved for use with specific projects that have been approved by the Board of Governors.
A Senator asked whether the budget could have been modelled to absorb all of the funding changes with reserve funding. A. Hrymak clarified that reserve funding would be used to address a one-time revenue short-fall but would not be used on an ongoing basis to offset the revenue decreases relating to the domestic tuition changes.

A motion to close debate was moved by D. Laird, seconded by V. Schwean.

The motion to close debate was called and CARRIED.

The question was called on the main motion and CARRIED.

QUESTIONS

A. Grzyb  Faculty of Information & Media Studies

How can the administration defend the transfer of $18.5 million from the operating budget to the capital budget at a time when the core functions of the university are being sharply cut? This includes the Maintenance, Modernization, and Infrastructure (MMI) transfer ($15.5 million) and the FRSF Transfer to Capital ($3 million level) – Appendix 1, p.28.

D. Belliveau  President, UWOFA

The Senate Committee on University Planning (SCUP) is recommending that Senate provide advice to the Board of Governors regarding Western’s 2019-20 University Operating and Capital Budget. The Budget documents were only provided to Senators on April 9, 2019, three days before the scheduled Senate meeting, insufficient time to carefully examine the documents and provide astute advice.

The ramifications of such a budget has not been contemplated since 2008-09 financial crisis at which time, members of the university community were offered opportunities to review and comment on budgetary implications through town hall meetings led by senior leadership at Western.

Earlier this week, I participated in a Leaders Forum on “our evolving teaching and learning environment” where we learned that Millennials and iGen students attending university are confident, high achieving students who also feel tremendous pressure to succeed and are grades and performance focussed; that Western believes we must offer supports to students that shift them “From Survive to Thrive”; and that students seeking support through services like SSD has risen by more than 300% since 2007 (1100 in 2007 to 3400 in 2017).

I ask all of you responsible for making these budget choices – have you done all that can be done to prioritize student learning and to safeguard a high quality educational experience by ensuring that there is no compromise to the complement of highly educated and talented instructors at Western and that student have access to all of the necessary supports to thrive at Western? That is the advice that I offer.

A. Chant  Administrative Staff

As part of the budget discussions at Senate tomorrow, I will be looking for answers on the following two questions:

1. As a result of the government-mandated tuition cut, the Administration has indicated units will need to cut their budgets more drastically than the normal 3% cut per annum. Cuts that affect the University’s missions of teaching and research should be prioritized behind delaying planned capital expenditures and temporarily reducing contributions to the endowment. As such, what contributions does the University foresee making toward the endowment this year? How does this compare to contributions in the last two years?

2. With the prospective budget now laid out, what consequences do we expect for units in terms of reductions in class sections or changes in staffing, both faculty and administrative/technical staff? In particular, I would like to hear how this prospective budget may affect units that have previously struggled financially, such as the Faculty of Arts and Humanities.
This question pertains to the transfer of operating funds to capital funds and the funding for Special Initiatives. These capital projects and special initiatives were planned before the Province announced its cuts.

Why are the plans for these various special initiatives being preserved in the proposed budget while the core functions of the university are absorbing the burdens of these 2.5% cuts?

In order to determine whether some of contributions to these plans/initiatives could be deferred for a year, some further detail in the presentation of background information would be useful to Senators and to members of the Board of Governors. On page 40/51, the report states:

"... Table 17 displays sources of funding for budgeted capital expenditures with estimates of comparative data for 2018-19, divided into six major categories: federal, provincial and municipal government grants; funds transferred from Western’s operating budget; interest earned; general fundraising; borrowing; and other sources, including internal recoveries. As compared to a decade ago, the University's capital budget is more dependent on transfers from the operating budget and debt."

While Table 17, lines 7 through 25 show the transfers proposed for 2019-2020 as well as those proposed for 2018-19, some additional historical information going back a few years is needed to put this limited information in better context. On its face, it appears as if the transfers are going down ($68.1 million to $33.2 million) but to put this into a more meaningful context, what were these numbers going back over the last five year period?

When operating funds are transferred to a capital fund, for example the Ivey-Spencer project) are these funds returned to the operating fund at some point?

It would be helpful to understand the current balance in each of these funds before approving any further transfers. Could this information be provided as a supplement to Table 17?

It is also unclear why these initiatives need to be supported from operating funds when there are alternatives that would have a less burdensome impact on core programs in the faculties. According to the April 30, 2018 Combined Financial Statements of UWO, Unrestricted Assets totalled $414.7 million at that time.

(Statement 3 and Note 15 of https://www.uwo.ca/finance/forms/docs/corporate_accounting/2018.pdf)

Why could the proposed budget not utilize some of these unrestricted assets to support these “high priority university-wide initiatives”, instead of diverting funds from the current operating budgets which are sorely needed by individual faculties/units?

The broader question, which would flow from this greater detail, is whether the university is becoming too dependent on taking money from operating funds to pay for these various projects and whether these transfers could be cut in a year of particular stress on faculty operating budgets.
